Opera Is Produced Here for First Time and Draws Good House.

Caruso in Splendid Voice and Miss Farrar Sings in Fine Form.

"Lodoletta," opera in three acts, book by C. Forzano, music by Pietro Mascagni, was produced yesterday afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera House for the first time in this country. The Metropolitan Opera House has been the scene of many successful productions, but this one has been particularly successful. The opera is a story of love and tragedy, and it is a story that has been told many times before. But it is a story that is still as true and as moving as ever.

The production of a new opera ought to be a triumph for the Metropolitan Opera House. It is a triumph for the opera in general, and it is a triumph for the Metropolitan Opera House in particular. The opera is a story of love and tragedy, and it is a story that has been told many times before. But it is a story that is still as true and as moving as ever.
